Screw the metal rails to the upper inside edge of the side panels. Turn the entire frame over so that the panels and rails are at the top, and snap the horizontal supports into place along the entire length of the rails.

Screw them secure from both above and below. Lay a mattress on the supports to use the Kura bed as a bunk.

Converted to Bunkbed:

I have 2 kids, and some time ago, they each had their own room. The little one got this for his former toddler bed and the big guy got a KURA platform/loft bed from Ikea. All was great for about 2 years.

However, a couple of years ago, the little o...
