Re-encoding to MP3. If you import an MP3 into Audacity, edit it then export it as an MP3, you will lose quality twice, once in the original MP3 encoding of the imported audio, then again when you export it from Audacity as MP3. So never do production work in MP3, instead work with a lossless format such as WAV, AIFF or FLAC and for final use then export to MP3.

MP3 Export Options - Audacity Manual

The software patent on LAME encoding library has expired, so now the LAME library for MP3 export is built-in with Audacity for Windows and Mac. Linux users will still need to download and install the free and recommended LAME third-party encoder to export MP3 files from Audacity.

I had that problem with my fiat , turned out after looking at the car user manual, the only MP3 it can read was up to 192Bps or 128bps maybe you need to read the manual to find out if this your case (if you know your MP3 are 320bps you may be in that same situation as I was) I used a freemake audio converted, and handle it that way.
